MBTI® Training Has Significant Impact on Team Building

“The impact MBTI® assessment and training has had on our organization has been significant for team building and those working on the project matrix teams. At the end of every workshop, I give examples of how to use the results for yourself and how to invest in learning about how others on your team take in information and make decisions.

Additionally, we build MBTI® ‘houses’ for the Director of Capital Projects and where there were blank spaces, we inserted questions that would normally be asked by that type in the design phase so they can develop the best product and process as possible.”
